ISSS Message:

Dear Students and Scholars,

On June 26, 2017, the United States Supreme Court released a decision to partially reinstate the Executive Order restricting travel of individuals from Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen. However, there are some important exceptions for students and scholars from the affected countries, as well as others who have a “bona fide relationship with a person or entity in the United States.” An overview of the Supreme Court decision, along with relevant guidance, is posted on the International Student and Scholar Services website. If you have further questions about your individual situation, please contact us (see below for contact information).

The University of Utah is committed to welcoming students and scholars from around the world, and we strive to create an inclusive, supportive environment for those who choose to take the brave step to study, research, and teach outside their home country. The ISSS Office staff would like to express our continued support of our international student and scholar community: if you need to speak with an advisor about your particular concerns, please do not hesitate to contact us by phone at: 801-581-8876 or by email at: international@utah.edu.

Sincerely,

Chalimar Swain
Director
International Student & Scholar Services
tel: 801-581-8876
www.ic.utah.edu
International Student & Scholar Services is open Monday-Friday, 8:00 to 17:00.